

Six courageous young women of Los Angeles, Cal., who have taken up aviation so that they may serve the Government as air scouts in the Coast Patrol.

Photo copyright by Underwood & Underwood.

Above—Mrs. Russell G. Colt, Jr., better known as Ethel Barrymore, and her three attractive children.

Photo Curtis Bell

A recent photograph of Mrs. Thomas Riley Marshall, the wife of the Vice-President of the United States.

Photo Tachrach

To left—Miss Jane Boland Sutherland, who has offered to recruit a force of American women to drive their own cars for ambulance work in France. She has already given her two cars for that service.

Photo Bain News Service

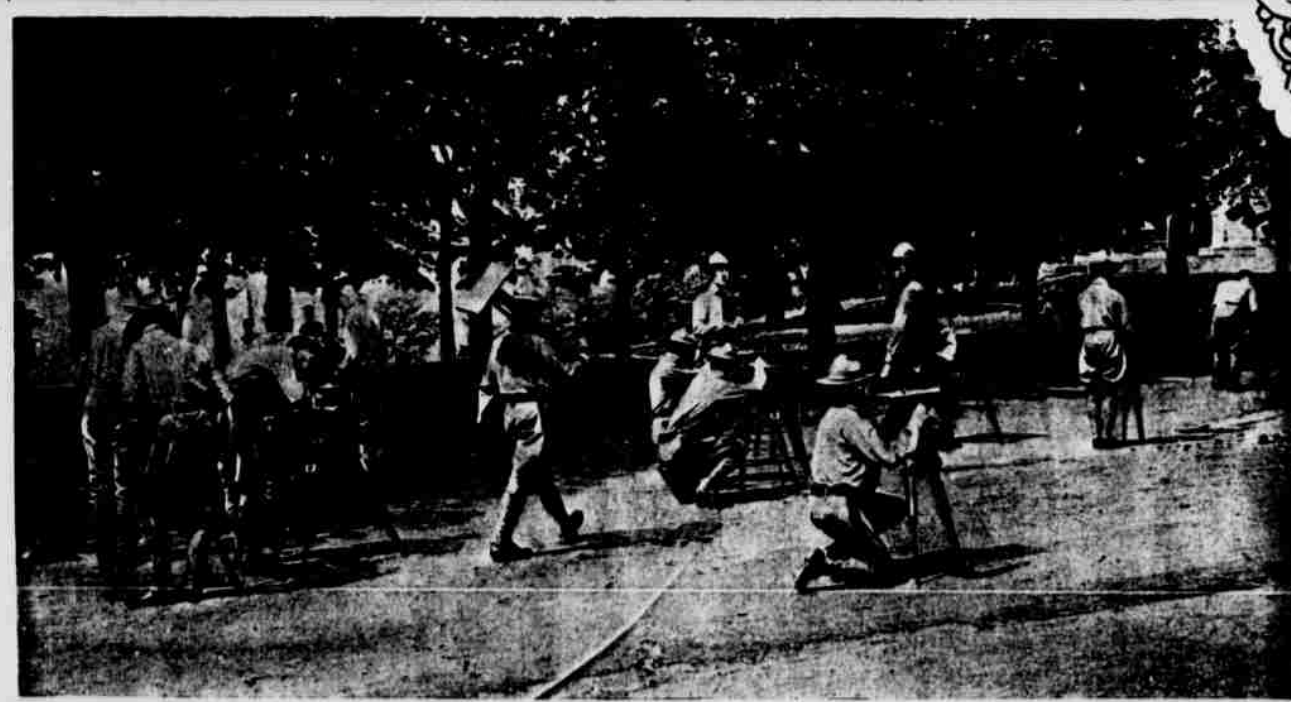

West Pointers in Their Summer Camp, Where the Academic Grind Stimulates the Field Work of War

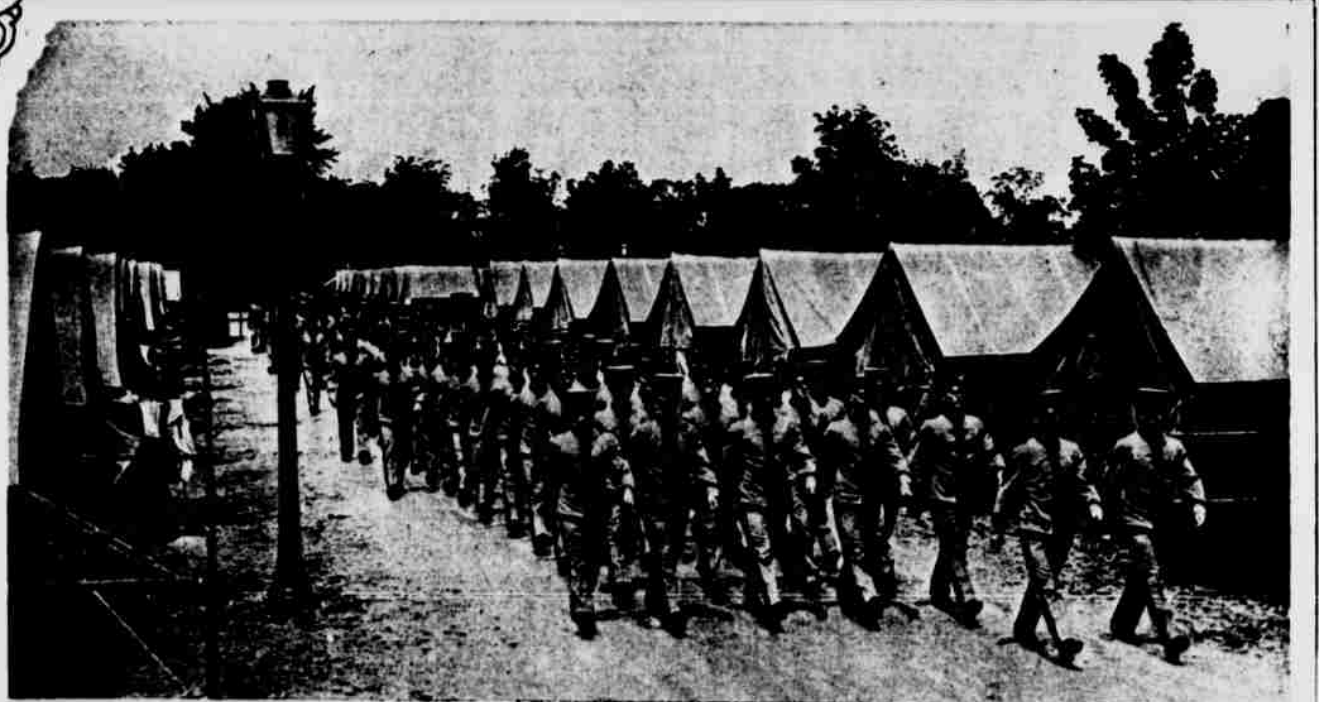

To right—Target practice that has much of the setting of a battle front. Bad work is not tolerated.

To left—A large part of good marksmanship is due to the careful oiling and cleaning of the rifle.

A class in military map making. Working away with the plane table.

Inwardly happy but outwardly serious. The cadets marching to dinner.

Photos copyright by Underwood & Underwood